

RESTRAINING SLINGS

for arms with ring

AN IRRITABLE PATIENT IS DANGEROUS!

Ref: SU-200

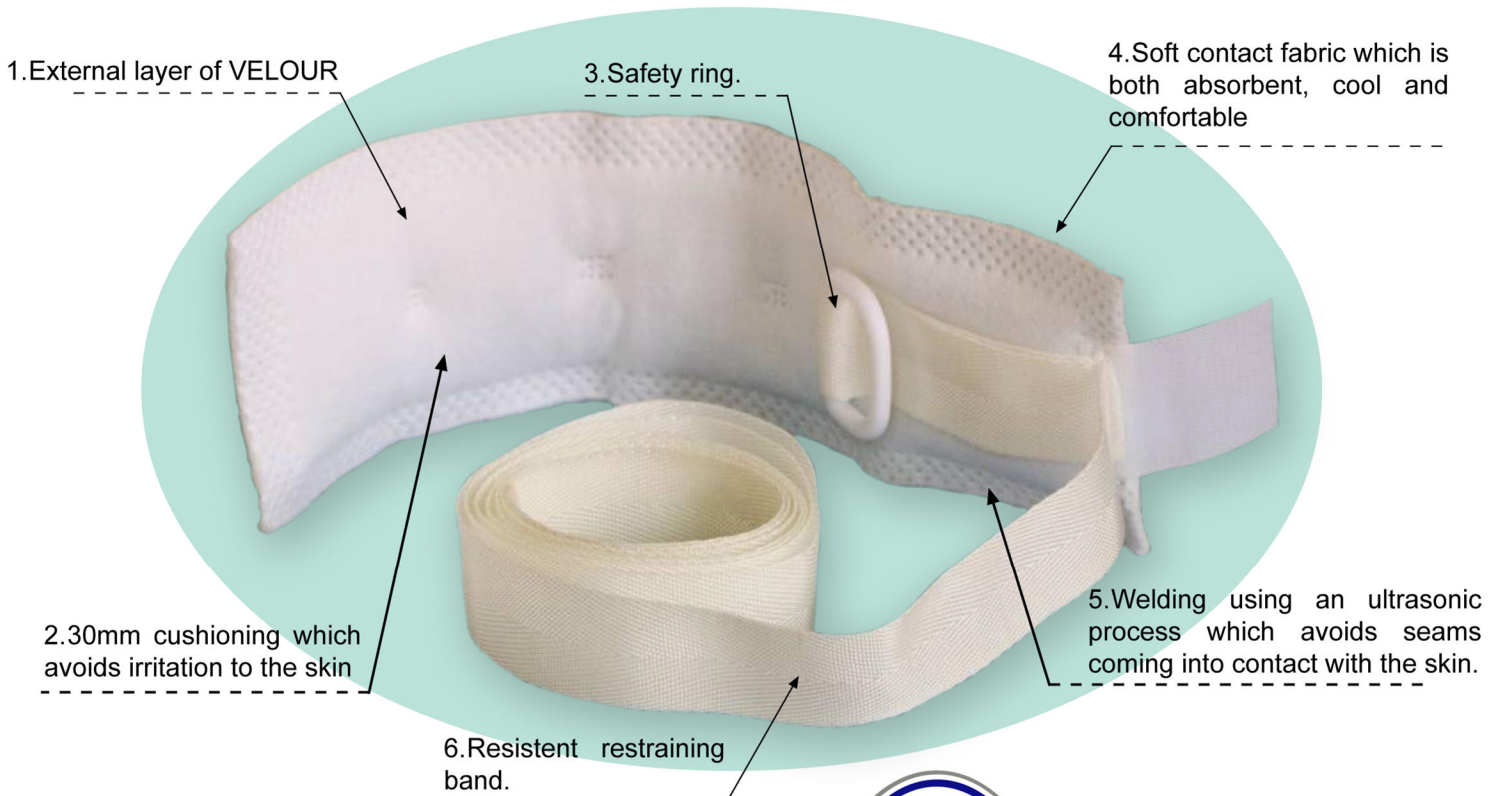

SU-200

Patients suffering from withdrawal symptoms of any kind often enter into a state of paranoia and it is very difficult for the nursing staff to control them. Their physical strength is greater than usual and they are quite likely to do things they would not do under normal circumstances, some of which may even be dangerous for the other patients sharing the ward.

The methods currently used for minimising the effects of the foregoing require the restraining of the patient's arms with resistant elastic bandages applied by the nursing staff.

2mil's ring restraining sling is extraordinarily resistant whilst being, at the same time, cool and comfortable. It is manufactured by an ultrasonic process and it is both cheaper and more effective than a hand-made restraining bandage.
